SECRETARY BLAINE'S CONDITION.

Very Sick. But Buoyed Up By Hope and Ambition.

A special to the San Francisco Examiner from New York says:

It is a remarkable fact that James G. Blaine, Secretary of State, the most prominent man in the Republic, the man in whose health American people are more interested than they are in the health of any other living man, not excepting the President himself, has been lying in a sick bed in this city for two full weeks without once being able to move out, and the New York papers have not thought that fact worth more than a short paragraph every day, and some days no mention at all.

They began two weeks ago by saying that his indisposition was of no consequence, and they have continued from day to day to say that he was improving and would soon be out.

THE TRUTH OF THE MATTER.

The fact is that for two full weeks the Secretary of State has not been able to leave his bed. He came from Washington to attend the opening of the new Carnegie Music Hall, and after that night's festivities he was immediately taken sick. He has since been lying at the house of his son-in-law, Walter Damrosch, the gifted musician, on West Seventieth street. Dr. Fred C. Dennis, the family physician of the Damrosch's, has been in daily attendance. At first Dr. Janeway was called.

Those who would give almost all they possess to see him in the enjoyment of good health feel but too keenly that Mr. Blaine will never be well. He is not without hope himself. His hope is equal to his ambition. His health is one of his vanities. The idea of invalidism is repugnant to him. He wants to be understood as a strong, healthy man.

THE PRESIDENCY.

He never yearned for the Presidency as he yearns for it now. Harrison's selfishness has almost made him mad. But let the idea get around that Blaine is a hopeless invalid and his chances for the Presidency are no more. Hence the persistent reports that it is only indigestion or gout. In Washington during the past year Mr. Blaine has not been able to go across from his own house to the State Department more than once or twice a week on the average. He has done his work in his own house, either lying in bed or propped up in an easy chair with pillows all around him, yet the doctor and family would persist in saying it was nothing serious, only gout, or something of that kind.

A COURSE OF MISREPRESENTATION.

The fact is that the public have been subjected to a long course of misrepresentation about Blaine's health. He has been a sick man for years. He has never completely recovered from the serious illness which took him to Scotland and to Italy in 1888, and on account of which he peremptorily declined to be a candidate for the Presidential nomination. No dead body has been more void of color and all appearance of health than Mr. Blaine has been ever since. No marble statue looks more bloodless than Mr. Blaine, even when he is able to appear for a few minutes in public.

Bright's disease has a fatal grip on the distinguished statesman. His system is broken down. His strength is gone. His ailments are progressive, and while his powers of endurance are great, he cannot last long. He has already been severely tested. He has not been fit to do a strong man's work any day since he became Secretary of State under the present Administration.

STEVE VENARD.

The Old Bandit Hunter Dies in the County Hospital.

Stephen Venard died in the County Hospital at Nevada City on the 20th instant, aged 68 years. He went to Nevada City in early days and followed the business of merchandising and mining by turns, and for a time engaged in the cattle business in this State. May 15th, 1866, the North San Juan stage was stopped near Nevada City by George Shanks, alias Jack Williams, Bob Finn, alias Cato, and George W. Moore, who captured $7,900. Venard, who participated in the chase a few hours later, came up with the highwaymen in one of the wildest and most inaccessible portions of South Yuba Canyon, where they were dividing the spoils. An encounter ensued, in which Venard, with a rifle, killed all three and escaped unhurt. Governor Low appointed him Lieutenant Colonel on his staff for meritorious services in the field, and the Wells, Fargo Express Company presented him with a valuable rifle. He was a man of modest demeanor, thoroughly temperate, of the strictest probity and not afraid of anything.

GRAIN RECEIPTS.

Over a Million Pounds Received This Spring at the Riverside Mills.

Since April 1st the farmers of this State and of Honey Lake Valley, California, have been delivering some of their wheat and barley at the Riverside Mills here. A detailed statement of the grain received at the mills within the time specified is as follows:

From Elko county, by rail, 187,705 lbs.

From Humboldt county, by rail, 321,995 lbs.

Honey Lake Valley, by rail, 469,045 lbs.

Honey Lake Valley, by teams, 120,595 pounds, making a total of 1,099,340 pounds.

Something over a million pounds of this grain was wheat and the rest barley. The wheat was made into flour here for home consumption, keeping the money in the State and giving employment to several persons. With factories run by the Truckee river, which could furnish sufficient power to manufacture everything required in the State, the demand for flour would be increased and farmers would find a market here for all the wheat they raise.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited, and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring-time or, in fact, at any time, and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

JULIA MAGUIER, Principal.

Pleasantly Expressed.

A humorous writer thus describes how he got out of a bad scrape at the police court: The next morning the magistrate sent for me. I went to him, and he received me cordially, said he had heard of the wonderful things I had accomplished by knocking down five persons and assaulting six others, and was proud of me, for I was a promising young man. Then he offered a toast, "Guilty or not guilty?" I responded in a brief but eloquent speech, setting forth the importance of the occasion that had brought us together. After the usual ceremonies I was requested to lend the city forty shillings.

Will Tunnel a Volcano.

It is now proposed to drive a tunnel into the very crater of Popocatepetl, and to build from the mouth of the tunnel a railway to connect with the interoceanic road at Amecameca. TOLEDO, O., Jan. 10, 1887.

Messrs. F. J. Cheney & Co.—Gentlemen:—I have been in the general practice of medicine for most 40 years, and would say that in all my practice and experience have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by you. Have prescribed it a great many times and its effect is wonderful, and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of Catarrh that it would not cure, if they would take it according to directions. Yours truly,
